ON the 16th paſt, the Imperial Ambaſſadour Count Virmont, ſet out from hence to return home: During his Reſidence here, the Viſier and all the Miniſters of the Port ſhewed him uncommon Civilities, and did their utmoſt to make him intirely ſatisfied with them. He marched out of Town with the ſame Ceremony as at his Entry. An Aga who was ſent to Algier at the Deſire of the Dutch Ambaſſadour, with a Letter from the Grand Signior to perſwade that Government to make Peace with the States General, is returned, and by the Report he makes, they are not inclined to do it either with them or the Venetians.
